Dear Community Members,

The remainder of April will be relatively calm for us around here, but, were we to follow the liturgical calendar strictly, things will crank up again in May and June big time! Considering the work done by our servers, schola and choir over the last few weeks, I've decided to strike a "happy medium" for those two months, and a little bit for July. All feasts will be observed, of course, but we shall avail ourselves of the legitimate option to assign a few to Sundays as External Solemnities. This is perfectly permissible – please feel free to check the FSSP Ordo – and I'm sure any number of our apostolates will be taking advantage of said options as well. Remember, in many FSSP apostolates, quite a number of people travel great distances. It's also quite telling that, in our community, some of those people who travel far are the very ones who are active in our server corps, choir and schola. But, don't worry, additions to the weekly schedules will be few, i.e., only one per month. The secret to it all? Easy. Simply check the Mass schedule we provide for you every week in the bulletin.

We saw Father Orlowski last weekend. He was away briefly for a wedding. However, as of today, he'll be gone now until 2 May. He'll be substituting for an FSSP priest who will take his much needed vacation. While we're on the subject, I'll let you know now – with a reminder closer to the time – that I'll be away for a week in May. I fly to Indianapolis on 18 May and I'll return 24 May. A young couple who, as kids, attended Lumen Christi School and High School will be getting married and they have honored me by asking me to officiate at their wedding. Though this is one of the things that remind a priest of how fleeting his earthly life might be, it is also one of the great joys he has to see "his" kids grow up and start new lives. The young man was one of my altar servers and I served as his Confirmation sponsor. Hope I can get through the wedding without breaking down.

May will also see another one of our own boys leave us for a while. Melvin Siebenmorgen will be going away to the marines. Heartrending how the Siebenmorgen boys come and go. Joe is happy with the Slaves of the Immaculate; John visits once in a while, as does Eli. William will be back soon, but, for how long? So many of our children come and go, mostly go, it seems. Soon, Marshall Harmon will leave us. Jim and Natalie Bell are gone now to Dallas. Happily, the Rogers family will return to us. Ah, the permanence of impermanent things, my children and my friends.

Father Magiera
